Middlebury Accepts 134 More Men

Women Double Up; Aid Housing Facilities

Approximately 134 new men are expected to enter Middlebury in February, raising the total from 151 to 275 men, counting losses through graduation and the draft.

To accommodate these students, women will move out of Sanford House, Seeley House, and Howard House. They will occupy rooms vacated by graduates in the Women's College, as well as 12 rooms voluntarily offered by girls in Forest, Hepburn, and Hillcrest. Fifteen of the new men will live in town, six will move into Chi Psi, 16 will move into Gifford, and the rest will live in the houses vacated by the women and the Federation House on Main Street.

400 Men Next Year

President Samuel S. Stratton has announced that the college plans to have 400 men enrolled next year. With this increase the total enrollment of the college will be almost 940, 228 more than the present total.

The normal college enrollment before the war was never higher than 830, for which number of students the college has adequate classroom, chapel, laboratory, library, dormitory, and dining facilities. Expansion of some of these facilities to meet the needs of the increased student body next year is a major problem facing the administration.

Seven Men's Dorms

Eaton House, Sanford, Howard, Seeley, and Jewett-Wilcox, will be men's dormitories next year, in addition to Gifford and Starr, which is expected to be completed by September. In order to have 400 men, the women's enrollment cannot exceed 534, limiting the number of new students, freshmen and transfers, to a maximum of about 70. The general college policy of increasing the size of the men's college as rapidly as possible makes

College Symphony To Present First Concert of Season

The Middlebury College Little Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Alan Carter will present its first concert of the year on Thursday, January 31, at 8:15 in Mead Chapel, featuring Margaret D. Armstrong '47 as piano soloist.

The program will open with Gluck's Iphigenia in Aulis overture. This overture was written for a lyric tragedy in three acts entitled Iphigenia en Aulide, and the entire work received its initial performance at the Paris Opera, April 10, 1774. It was the first of a number of operas written by Gluck for Paris, created a veritable sensation at the time of its production, and has remained as a monument to the genius of its composer and as the foundation upon which the entire complicated structure of so-called modern opera has been reared. According to Wagner, the whole content of the overture is made up of four outstanding motives: (1) A motive of appeal, offered by a heart torn with anguish, (2) A motive of power; imperious and overbearing, (3) A motive of grace and maidenly tenderness, (4) A motive of sorrow and agonizing pity.

"Jesu , Joy of Man's Desiring"

The next number on the program will be the familiar Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring by Bach, and following this, Margaret D. Armstrong '47 and the orchestra will play Mozart's Concertino in C.

Following the intermission, the orchestra will play four waltzes of Brahms which are arrangements of the piano waltzes. Nocturne (From Two American Sketches), by an American composer, Thomas Griselle, will follow, after which the orchestra will play the Prometheus overture written by Beethoven as overture to a ballet. The program will end with the full orchestra and organ playing Elgar's Pomp and Circumstance.

Members of the orchestra include: Nancy L. Richardson '48, concert mistress, and Eleuptheria X. Constant '48,

Elkins to Talk About Carnival Tonight at 10:45

Frank Elkins, sports writer of the New York Times, who spent this past weekend reviewing the Middlebury Carnival and announcing Sunday's jumping events on Chipman Hill, is giving special coverage to Carnival events on his WHN (1050) program of Ski Casts tonight at 10.45 p.m.

Double Tribute

This broadcast, eighth of a weekly series presented during the winter sports season by Mr. Elkins, is concerned with the latest in ski news and figures in the eastern competitive field. Each week Mr. Elkins picks out some college or ski group which has done the most outstanding work of the week in promoting the skiing sport. Top credit was given to Middlebury in last week's broadcast and, according, to Mr. Elkins, this will be the first time in his current series that he has given double tribute to any ski organization.

Essay Contest

Harry Wade Hicks, director of National and Eastern ski associations, will be a guest speaker on Mr. Elkins' broadcast tonight. In addition to reviewing the Carnival of this past week-end, snow forecasts and conditions will probably be described for other sports centers. An additional interest is given to the program each week by the awarding of a pair of Flexible Flyer split pine laminated skis, one of the finest types of ski available to the best essay submitted to Mr. Elkins on "Why I Enjoy Skiing." The contest is open to all listeners and is limited in scope to 200 words.

Four-Day Vacation Will Follow Exams

Due to the arrival of 134 new members to the Men's College, the inter-semester holiday has been extended four days with the spring term beginning on Friday, February 22, instead of Monday, February 18.

However, all dormitories will remain open during the week following examinations to allow for the settlement of new men and for the transfer of women to new lodgings. Regular meals will be served in all college dining halls for those who wish to remain on campus during the holiday and to care for returning servicemen. February 18 has been set for the arrival of the majority of these new students although many will enter college late due to delays in obtaining discharge from the service. Registration for these men will extend from the morning of February 19 to noon of the next day.

Previously, the college had made plans to have classes and registration take place simultaneously on February 18 for ex-servicemen returning to college. Final dates for registration of regular students will remain the same as stated in chapel last week. Pre-registration must be completed by Saturday of this week while final payment of the first semester deposit must be made by noon of February 16.

The longer holiday given at the end of this semester will bring no change in the remainder of the college calendar. The spring semester will end as scheduled on Thursday, June 6, while the eight-day spring recess will take place as regularly planned.

Coronation, Band Highlight Carnival Ball on Saturday

The Middlebury Winter Carnival Ball was held at the high school gym from 8 to 12 on Saturday evening, January 19, to the cheery rhythm of Randy Brooks and his orchestra.

The boys and girls of Middlebury appeared with each other and their many imports, all arrayed in their most luxurious outfits to dance to the sweet or the many lively tunes of Randy Brooks, his golden horn, and his vocalists. That famous orchestra was as much appreciated at Midd as it was in any of the New York night spots where it has previously played. The orchestra played a variety of numbers, but the brass section, led by Brooks' trumpet, was particularly outstanding in its jazz arrangements.

Carnival Coronation

The Carnival coronation was the first peace-time ceremony since February 1940. More dramatic and impressive than ever, the crowning of the 1946 Carnival king and queen took place during

Faculty Inn Dance To Have United Nations Theme

A truly cosmopolitan air will be brought to the Middlebury Inn next Saturday by the faculty's Cosmos Club, which is sponsoring a dinner dance from 6:30 to 12, with a United Nations theme.

Invitations, place cards, and decorations will all carry out the international idea, and each table is to represent a different country belonging to the United Nations Organization. The decorations will be valuable objects donated by persons who actually purchased them in their respective countries.

Entertainment will also be appropriate to the theme, since it will consist in part of folk dances to be presented between the courses of the dinner.

Members of the committee are Prof. and Mrs. Mischa H. Fayer, co-chairmen, Prof. and Mrs. Charles A. Adams, Miss Alice E. Cooke, Prof. Lewis J. Hathaway, Prof. and Mrs. John A. Holden, Jr., Prof. Clara B. Knapp, and Prof. and Mrs. Robert W. Rafuse.

N. H. Places Next, Trailed by Army, Midd and U.V.M.

Resembling the ski teams of pre-war years, Coach Walter Prager's Dartmouth Indians swept to a convincing victory at the 15th Annual Middlebury Carnival, held here last week-end.

Except for a brief spurt by McGill university, in the downhill and slalom combined, the Hanover men were never in trouble, as Prager's well balanced squad scored heavily in all events, amassing a total of 574.85 points to the second place New Hampshire teams 525.59. Army finished third with 501.22, followed by Middlebury, Vermont, McGill, Williams, M.I.T., R.P.I., and Tufts.

Fife Captured Downhill

On Friday morning, before an estimated 500 spectators, Harry Fife, son of Professor Fife, captured the downhill in the very fast time of 1.38.4, which was good time, considering the slow condition of the course. Contestants found the trail difficult to maneuver, and less than half a dozen took the hill without a tumble. Close on Fife's trail was Mal McLane, former P-47 pilot and now one of Dartmouth's outstanding skiers, who roared down the mile and a tenth run in 1.38.9. Don Staniforth of McGill, Cremer of Middlebury, and Vern Lamb of Dartmouth, placed next, in that order.

MEN'S ELECTIONS TO BE HELD SOON

The seven candidates for Men's Undergraduate President were determined last week by a single election ballot. The president will be elected by preferential ballot on January 31 at 6:30 in Gifford Rec directly after supper. The men will cast seven votes in order of their preference.

The candidates, all from terms seven and eight, with the number of votes received in the first balloting are as follows: Robert C. Terrill (30), Alexander W. Calder (16), George F. Wiemann (15), Charles A. Scott (13), Peter E. Funck (12), Jacob A. Samenfink (8), and Charles R. Bobertz (4). Mr. Samenfink has declined to be listed on the final ballot.

Out of a possible 152 students, only 104 cast their vote.

E. Bronner '46 Writes Hit Play on Negro Prejudice

Edwin A. Fadiman

Since the war ended, there has been a revival of interest in the Negro problem. This sudden awakening to one of the most pregnant modern problems, has manifested itself with extraordinary vigor in the literary field, and we have had a succession of books and plays which have tried in their own specialized and limited ways to dispel some of the fog of race prejudice which rests miasmatically upon the social consciousness of mankind.

Produced by Blackfriars

Such an attempt is a new play, "A Young American" produced by an honest semi-professional organization, the Blackfriars Guild, and written by a former Middlebury student, Edwin M. Bronner ex-'46. Since Ed left Middlebury to go into the army in 1943, he has been writing regularly, and for the most part, unsuccessfully. In the army he was connected with Special Services in Camp Wheeler, and produced a weekly soldier's show with inadequate facilities and a great amount of work. When honorably discharged, he found a job as radio announcer in Long Island, on station WWRL.

Long Difficult Process

In his free time he started his play. It took him six months to write, and a year and a half to sell. But it was an honest play, with an original idea, and perfect for Blackfriars which specializes in honest work by unknown authors. He sold it to them six months ago for their second production of the year, and stayed up every night until two o'clock in the morning, choosing his cast, rewriting painfully, and biting his nails.

On the sixteenth of this month, it was produced on a small stage, in the intimate Blackfriars theater, with semi-professional actors, and directed by Denis Guernsy, who has been director for Blackfriars for the past seventeen years.

Realistic Depiction

Burton Rascoe, theatrical commentator for the New York Herald-Tribune, sat in the back of the theater and watched while on stage a young negro composer, living in terms of equality with a white household, awoke to the fact of race prejudice. He watched while the maids walked out, and he watched while the young colored boy writhed in spiritual agony, and he watched while this same young man solved his own problem and squaring his shoulders, settled his new weight

VOL. XLIII JANUARY 24, 1946 NO. 3

All We Ask

For two years Middlebury students waited for the time when there would be a men's college that would take its place again in the college life and activities. The enrollment of over 150 men this fall was the partial realization of our hopes. We were all confident that it would not be long before that realization would be complete—that the men would soon play a leading part in every phase of our extra-curricular activity. Now that this first semester is nearing an end we stop to see what has become of our fond expectations.

It cannot be denied that a negligibly small number of men have shown interest in college activities outside of sports. About 15 men are active in S.A.A., two are on the CAMPUS staff, barely half a dozen are interested in language clubs, and of the six men on Skyline, three are men who were here before this year. The newly organized flying club is the only activity that represents a display of initiative from the men's college. The Playhouse is one organization that has received the expected amount of interest, but even there the same few seem to be active. Kaleidoscope boasts only one tryout, and humanities has, to date, no active men, although a few have bothered to attend meetings.

No one can answer for another why he is not interested in extra-curricular activities, but with the above evidence before us, we should try, if only by guesswork, to find out why the record stands as it does.

It might possibly be the fault of the organizations. Are the programs too useless and uninteresting to attract people to them? Are the women who are now running them trying to prevent the men from gaining their pre-war control by discouraging any indications of interest from the men? In all fairness, we must say that the answer to these questions is an emphatic "No." It is the leaders of campus activities who are the most concerned about the lack of response and most anxious to have men leading their organizations again. For these purposes they are working especially hard to make their activities attractive and worthwhile for them.

A more likely possibility is the attitude of the men, especially of the older veterans, that they are here for only one purpose—to finish their education as soon as possible. A "collegiate" life, meaning, we presume, a minimum of work, many outside activities, and no purpose except to make a name for oneself on the campus, is a once desired but now rejected objective in their thinking. To some extent they are justified in this attitude, and are to be sincerely commended for their more serious purpose. Quite possibly they may not gain any experience in Skyline, for example, that will help prepare them for the work they are anxious to start.

This attitude, however, is based on two misconceptions, which, if honestly recognized, might be corrected. First of all, participation in an extra-curricular activity does not automatically transform a college student into a "joiner," "eager beaver," or "glory seeker," and it does not imply that a person's only purpose in college is to pass four pleasant, irresponsible years. Individuals who exemplify these traits are people who also have a misconception of the place that extra-curricular activities should have in college life.

Secondly, even if any particular activity holds no permanent experience value for the individual, it can still be justified by its temporary college value. The wide variety of campus organizations are designed to present a broad scope of interests that will provide the student with opportunities for constructively and pleasantly occupying his spare time. They give us something different to think about, and are a means of knowing people with whom we would otherwise never come in contact.

The men's college is obviously interested in sports and anxious to see them promoted to a much larger extent than they now are. They showed willingness to cooperate and work preparing for Carnival. But there is no apparent reason why their enthusiasm should be directed in these channels alone. With a little effort on everyone's part the extra-curricular program of Middlebury could easily be profitable for us all—men and women alike. Why not give it a try?

Free Speech

The editors are not responsible for opinions expressed in this column unless they are clearly prefaced by "Editors' Note."

To the Editors:

In the opinion of many of us Freshmen, the attitude taken towards compulsory chapel is rather disconcerting, to say the least. We feel that it is an integral part of our Campus life, without which there would be a definite something lacking (maybe we haven't been here long enough to tire of it). I realize that many of the upper classmen gripe, but I ask this question: "You don't want it entirely abolished, do you?" I doubt if it were, that many would go to church at all during the term, which would certainly create a discrepancy in their education. For religion, whether taken in intermittently pleasant doses or not like many other subjects, is a necessary part of our education.

Yours truly,
An Optimistic Freshman.

NOTICE

Attention is again called to the College regulation that "students are not permitted to maintain or operate motor vehicles in the town of Middlebury while college is in session, except by permission of the Dean. Before permission is granted, students are required to register cars at the Dean's office.

Any veterans who have delayed submitting the new Veterans' Benefit forms pending an opportunity to consult a Veterans' Administration representative, are requested to have them in the Dean's Office by Saturday, January 26.

Home Economics 34 will be given at 11.30 on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday during the spring term. There will be a course in Home Economics at 10.30 and 11.30 on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Preregistration between January 21 and 26 is required of all students returning for the February semester. Obtain your adviser's card from the registrar's office. Class schedules will be available on Monday, January 21.

Any student who is interested in taking Physical Education 36.1, Community Recreation and Playground Supervision, in the February, 1946, term should see Miss Rosevear at her office in the Gymnasium during the week of January 18-23.

Any student wishing to reapply for scholarships should prepare application forms in the Dean's Office before February 6.

Eight students are needed to live at the Homestead next semester. The cooperative plan will be used in which the cooking and serving of meals will be required; no cleaning will be done by students. Approximately half of the board bill will be saved under this plan; any women interested may apply at the Dean of Women's office tomorrow or Saturday.

To Men's College on Rooming:

Room contracts are drawn for the academic year; consequently there will be no room drawing or general reassignment of rooms for the second semester. There will be a few changes necessitated by men tripling-up and accommodations will be made for men having ample justification for moving. Any question concerning rooming for the second semester should be referred to Mr. Gordon A. Barrows in Room 48, Old Chapel, before January 29.

Bronner Play

upon them and went out again into the world, wiser, older, and yet more hopeful. Then Burton Rascoe went home and wrote that this play was better than Strange Fruit and Deep Are the Roots. The Times must have been there too, because in their own dignified way, they went a little wild over the play.

The play is a hit. It may deserve a broadway production. It may make a lot of money. But more important, it is the voice of young America, and Edwin Bronner, at the age of twenty-two, may well become a powerful influence upon the stage of 1950.

What a Weekend! Shouts Spectator At Midd Carnival

Jo Buck

What a week-end! Overnight the usually calm and frequently deserted streets of Middlebury were filled with hordes of alumni(æ), skiers, parents and CARS. . . .

Snow Prayers

St. Peter sure called that snowfall close after our prayers in chapel the beseeching chords of the organ to the tune of you-know-what, the chapel bells that night to the same tune, and Midd's favorite waker-upper, "Lamere's Early Morning Varieties," playing Les Brown's recording of the same ditty, St. Peter couldn't refuse to answer our pleas. . . .

"You Can't Take It With You," was a perfect beginning for the week-end. "Swiftie" certainly did more'n her share, what with taking on the social committee duties and enacting with inimitable Swift skill the part of Mrs. Sycamore (What would you put down for "lust?"). Bill ("Man-of-the-hour") Niederauer, as Mr. DePinna the firecracker man, had the audience rolling in the proverbial aisles. . . .

Breadloaf Cold

Brrrrrr, that ride to Breadloaf with all the "modern (in)conveniences!" Most of us had never seen the ski events held at Breadloaf and it certainly was worth it—especially when we have such terrific ski teams. . . .

"Klondike Rush" proved to be just as informally rowdy as usual—the way we like it after a day at the races. Park Preble's versatile nine kept us busy with squares, jive and almost enuf of the dreamy stuff. In a word, "rugged but right" for Klondike. . . .

The big news is finally out! Midd is mighty proud of "Crawf" and "Russ," our regal couple who reigned over an out-of-this-world four hours at the Carnival Ball. . . .

Elkins' Contribution

Sunday's events drained the remaining energy off the Carnival participants. Frolic, the jumping at Chipman and the Ice show completed the festivities. Frank Elkins, who announced at the jumping, sure makes it even more fascinating with his store of information and quips combined with his real Midd spirit. . . .

If you find it hard to smile as you turn back to that heap of books on your desk, take hold of your "Encyclopedia Middleburia" (alias Carnival program) and chuckle from cover to cover. It's a masterpiece of college humor! . . . .

There just aren't fine enuf words for "Cush" and "Ray" who gave us such a memorable Carnival! I guess they know "what a time!" we had if facial expressions can tell the tale. (Yes, I mean Carnival Ball.)

War Bonds Offered For Essay Contest

To commemorate its seventy-fifth anniversary year, Hunter College of New York City is offering a series of prizes totaling $12,900, maturity value, in victory bonds for essays on various aspects of intercultural relations. The prize money has been made available through the generosity of Lane Bryant, Inc., of New York City. It will be available to three groups of contestants:

A. College and university students in the continental United States. Their topic is "How can American colleges or other social institutions promote appreciation of the cultures of other peoples and cooperation among then?"

B. Teachers in colleges, universities, high schools, and elementary schools in the continental United States. They have as a topic, "How can the American teacher help to foster intercultural relations?"

C. High school students in the five boroughs of New York City. Their topic is, "How can national unity be promoted by high schools or other social activity groups?"

First prize for each group is $1000 (maturity value) in victory bonds and the second is $500 (maturity value) in victory bonds. March 1, is the deadline for the contest and the winners will be announced May 1.

BILLBOARD

Last week-end will be remembered for many years to come, as the best carnival that Middlebury has produced.

This is the 5th carnival for yours truly, and in comparison to the others, it stands head and shoulders above.

Not enough praise can be given to Ray and Emmy. Midd can thank its lucky stars that they have such students in their midst.

Dave Hunt was about the busiest man, wherever work was to be done, Dave was there—he not only announced the downhill and slalom, but helped make each event run smoothly.

If any of you enjoyed the warmth of a fire up on Breadloaf, chances are, it was through the work of Dave and Professor Voter.

Here is a list of those you can thank: Barbara Bates and Sue Carr for their work in conjunction with feeding the many "extras," Rob Willits and Phil Faber for their policing, parking, trails and first aid jobs. Jo Buckeridge, Sue Gard, Crawf and Nancy Surtees on the social side—along with Bill Calder, whose efforts landed Randy Brooks for the Ball. Mary Cameron for her swell decorating scheme, with the many caricatures.

I overheard one of the McGill skiers say, "I've never attended a carnival where everything has run as smoothly as this one."

Some of the former Midd men that were here, and the place was literally crawling with them, were: Dick Morehouse, Will Bangs, Vic Colonna, Jack Bates, Sandy Young, Phil Dunham, Bob Mason, Paul Davis, Mike Kollegian, Vance Richardson and Phil Backup.

Seems every time you turned around, there was someone of earlier days, to say hello to—especially at the Klondike.

Frank Elkins of the NY Times, remarked on the spirit of the students—and how the Carnival couldn't have succeeded without it. How true that is! That's why ours surpasses those of other schools.

Klondike was sure knocked out—some get-together, and quite a time was had by all—.

Amazing how people can change from the Klondike spirit, to that of the Ball, but then Midd is an amazing place.

At times one might think we still had a naval unit up here, there sure were a lot of them around.

The irony of it all: Carnival ends, so Sunday night and Monday, we get 4 or 5 inches of snow—ho hum.

George Huban can be thanked for his never tiring work with the newspaper men.

Did you see: Joan Calley, Betty Casey, Paula Knight, Betty Adell McCord, Lee van Lueven, Betts Allen, Jean Williams, Georgia Childs Young, Nancy Rindfusz Bates, Margie Watson and Mary Bidwell, to mention a few.

Thanks, Bobo and Joe, for the swell job you did.

Vergennes was quite popular, too!—

Anyone find Joe L'Episcopo's bed? He swears that there were three fellas in it the last time he saw it.

Thanks also to Professors Webster, Heinrichs, Wissler, Bowker, and Voter. And to the gals in the ski cabin—that coffee was "delish."

Swifty and Alice Neef handled the housing situation so well, that word has it, that they are going to be called to New York for consultation, regarding the Big City's housing problem.

A hearty thanks to you, Mrs. Craig.

Randy Brooks was okay—those acoustics at the high school gym didn't do him justice, though.

Made Savitt look sick in comparison.

Basketball boys are going after their first win this weekend, against McGill, at Montreal.

Ditto the ski team, at West Point.

WOLF.

FRESHMEN BOW TO SENIOR FIVE IN FAST OPENER

A fighting freshman team went down to defeat at the hands of a more experienced and better shooting senior team, in a game played on Tuesday, January 22, at 4.00 p.m. The score, 15-9, showed that neither of the teams was able to break loose for a scoring streak.

Good Individual Play

The game was marked by brilliant individual play on the part of the freshman team. Constance Kelly '49, played an outstanding game as center forward, for that team. Her tricky floor work enabled her to loose her guards, leaving her free to shoot. The freshman guards presented a better combination for team work. Eleanor M. Blanc, Priscilla J. Davis, Gene P. Edgar, Cornelia H. Smith and Lura L. Williams, all alternated at the position of guard.

Senior Teamwork

The senior team, on the other hand, really played as a team on both sides of the line. The main defense of the guards against the shooting of the freshmen was the "off-the-board" work of Mary Jane Selleck. The forwards, too, showed good shooting form, with Alice L. Bull, Lucinda H. Darby and Marcey S. Lynn playing the entire game.

The seniors were also victorious earlier in the week, when they played the Juniors' A team. This time it was a walk-away for the seniors, outscoring and outplaying the juniors, who never once got going. The final score was 35-9.

Girls' basketball tournaments began Monday, January 21, starting the season which will extend two weeks into next semester. During the tournaments, games will be played every Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Middlebury J.V.'s Lose Union Game

Midd's Blue and White yearlings dropped their third straight basketball game to a town team from Middlebury a week ago last night, 24 to 12, in a preliminary game to the Union-Middlebury contest.

Once again the collegians played a sloppy brand of ball, as they failed to work the ball in and had no set offense. Their man to man defense could not stop the town boys, as Novak broke through four different times to score. Grady and Dick Barnes led the Panthers with four counters apiece.

Union College Wins Against Midd Quintet

Once again the Black Panthers of Middlebury were unable to stop the Red Devils from Schenectady as Union College trounced Midd for the second time this season 61-38. The game was hard fought throughout, for what the Middlebury quintet lacked in ability and plays they made up in sheer aggressiveness.

High Scorers

No less than the astronomical number of 21 fouls were committed by both teams during the evening with Midd's leading scorer in the past, Don Means, heading the rough list with four personals. Captain Russ Dale, now playing his last few games for the college before his February graduation, got "red hot" during the second half and ran up eleven points to add to the single foul shot which he had made during the opening period. Union's high scorer was on during the entire game and sank remarkable shots from every part of the court to precede Dale as the evening's top man with nineteen points.

Top Newspaper Reporters Cover College Carnival

Middlebury's Carnival this year boasted of direct coverage by some of the biggest journals in the East, such as the New York Times, Herald Tribune, Boston Herald and others, whose top sports reporters made their headquarters at the special newsroom set up by the College Press at the Middlebury Inn.

Ski Room Used

Only a few skis tucked away in the corners gave indication that the room had once been known as the Middlebury Ski Shop. For the Carnival weekend, it had been given the impressive sign of "Press Room" and was well provided with typewriters, telegraph units and a wealth of paper, pencils and reporters. Two wires were kept busy meeting the deadlines of Boston journals while Mr. Elkins and Hawthorne of the New York Times and Tribune brought their copy to press by long-distance phone.

Mr. Elkins was the first of the group to arrive and was the only correspondent to see the women's skiing events on the Breadloaf slopes. Results were compiled and ready for transmission by six o'clock that first evening and from that time on the wires to Boston continued to clatter as fast as copy was banged out on the six typewriters that had been provided.

Leading Reporters

Saturday and Sunday morning saw the press room overflowing with early morning editions of the reporters' home papers. Midd's Carnival was an event of leading importance in this week's ski news, the first major competitive meet since the end of the war. The reporters who were assigned to the Carnival weekend were all leading sports men on their papers, most of them having regular weekly columns. They were all skiers themselves who looked rather like contestants when they arrived Friday in ski pants and windbreaker jackets. Their first act for the weekend was to organize a ski expedition to chapel hill and to worry about copy later. They were generally impressed by Middlebury and by the work that had been done to put the Carnival over. Facilities at the press room were of the best, thanks to the efforts of the College Press Bureau. A new Carnival service seems to have been created.

Becky Fraser Places First In All Women's Ski Events

Peg Curtis on Women's Slalom

V. Hodder Takes Second In Combined Events; McGill Next

Rebecca A. Fraser '46, star and captain of the Middlebury women's ski team made a clean sweep of all the women's events in the 1946 Winter Carnival by taking first place in the downhill, slalom and combined honors. This complete mastery of all fields gave her a perfect score of 200.

Second place in the combined, was taken by Virginia M. Hodder '47, second ranking skier on the Middlebury team. Three and two-tenths points behind her came the accomplished star of the McGill team, Margaret Burden. Dorothy Burden, Joan Staniforth and Mary Powell, all of McGill, took the remaining combined honors, in that order.

Previous Victories

Clocked at 1:44.6, Becky, who has won the downhill in two previous carnivals, made the torturous mile-long downhill run in her flawless style, seldom checking her terrific speed. By following the closest line of the trail, she was able to cross the finish line a full ten seconds ahead of her nearest competitor, Miss Burden, McGill senior, who last year at Pico Peak led an international field in the downhill, having fully recovered from the effects of an injury suffered several years ago, Polly Hodder, also taking the run almost straight, took third place in that event. Miss Dorothy Burden, sister of the other contestant, was fourth, with Miss Joan Staniforth, also of McGill, fifth.

Difficult Slalom

In the 35 "gate" slalom, laid out by Coach Jo Jones of the men's team, Becky again led the field with a brilliant run clocked at 1:22.6. Her seemingly effortless negotiation of the difficult course, was a thrilling spectacle of precision. Polly, second in the slalom, also turned in a beautiful run at 1:27.5. The McGill girls again completed the top honors, with Dorothy Burden third, her sister fourth, and Miss Staniforth fifth.

The tabulated results for the women's meets with the individual combined scores are as follows:

DOWNHILL

Order of Finish

Name and School	Time
Fraser, Becky, Middlebury	1:44.6
Burden, Margaret, McGill	1:55.6
Hodder, Polly, Middlebury	2: 3.4

Mullins Designs Cartoon Showing Winter Carnival

Middlebury's 1946 Winter Carnival was the subject of a sports cartoon drawn by the well-known Willard Mullin of the New York World-Telegram. The cartoon appeared in that paper on Saturday, January 18, on the eve of Carnival.

In the extreme upper left hand corner of the drawing is a caricature sketch of a sfalwart Dartmouth skier racing to the rescue of another skier who has come to grief in a snowbank. The caption reads, "Dartmouth has long been synonymous with winter sports . . ., and most intercollegiate snow and ice affairs have been a fight for second place. . . ."

"Last year a little freshwater college, Middlebury, slid away with Dartmouth's famous carnival cup," is the caption beside a drawing of Middlebury's captain, Tom Cremer holding the coveted cup. Centrally located on the cartoon are drawings of Becky Fraser and Polly Hodder, Middlebury co-eds who rank as experts in international competition.

The cartoon is completed with a caricature drawing of Ray Sacher and Emmy Cushing, carnival co-chairmen, reading, "And the blue and white Panthers are out for the Indian again . . . . even if they have to import a carload of cornflakes to slide on."

P. S. "Dear Saint Peter, So there too!"—Emmy Cushing.

West Point Meet Set For Weekend

With the report of favorable weather conditions, the Blue and White Ski squad will travel to West Point this week-end to take part in the academy's annual intercollegiate meet, held this year on the newly opened Silver Depository Hill.

Injuries incurred by various members of the Panther squad will be generally healed for the coming meet. Doc Wells' sprained wrist is back in order and Dick Bailey's injuries will prove no handicap to his four-event activities. The squad will face the same general group of colleges as competed in Middlebury's Carnival last week-end. They will leave Friday and be lodged at the West Point gymnasium.

Jumping will probably be the severest test for Midd's hickory men in the coming meet. Bear Mountain boasts of two jumps, a giant 80 meter and a smaller 50 meter adjacent to it. Both are considerably larger than that of Middlebury's on Chipman Hill.

The remainder of the week-end's events will take place in the general area of the academy. The downhill and slalom trails on Silver Depository Hill were constructed this past summer by 300 prisoners of war.

Co-Chairmen of Carnival Celebrate with Banquet At Waybury Last Night

The end of Carnival activity was reached last night with a banquet at the Waybury Inn, at 6:30 p.m., for the co-chairmen of all committees.

Invitations appropriate to the various committees were issued by Ray Sacher '47, and Emily Cushing '47, co-chairmen of the Carnival. Those for the co-chairmen of Carnival Ball were in the form of a crown, for the Klondike, a ski sweater; for the ice show, a skate; for the Trails and Equipment committee, a bushel basket; for the skiing, a "pinnie"; for the Frolic, a coffee cup; for the Social committee, a bed; for the Transportation, First Aid and Police, a red truck; for the Rally, a snowman; for the Ticket committee, a miniature ticket; for the Poster committee, a miniature poster; for the Program committee, a program, and for the Food committee, a small cardboard box. The place cards were appropriate to the theme. After the dinner Ray Sacher gave an informal talk.

The Carnival banquet was innovated last year at the Middlebury Inn by "Baba" Boyden and Peggy Romer, co-chairmen of the '45 Carnival.

Revised Constitution of Men's Student Government

Approved by both Men's Assembly and Student Life Committee, the following revised constitution of the Men's Student Government will be voted upon tomorrow night in Gifford Rec directly after dinner.

Preamble

We, the undergraduate men students of Middlebury College, do hereby ordain and establish a representative form of student government and dedicate it to the ideals of Middlebury College and to the principles of the democratic form of government under which we live as American citizens.

Middlebury College seeks to teach good citizenship, as well as to train the mind and develop the personality of her students. It is our belief that representative student government can contribute to this objective by giving individual students the experience of direct participation in their own government, and by developing in every student a sense of personal responsibility for his own conduct and for the welfare of Middlebury College, of which he is a part.

The purpose of this Constitution shall be to provide a controlling and directing force for every phase of undergraduate activity not directly administered by the college.

Article I. Legislative Department

Section 1. Men's Student Assembly.

There shall be a legislative department, known as the Men's Student Assembly, established on the representative principle.

Section 2. Election of Representatives.

1. The Men's Student Assembly (hereinafter called the Assembly), shall be composed of representatives, elected by the students by secret ballot. The word students when used in this Constitution shall meaq Undergraduate men students regularly enrolled in Middlebury College.

2. The students residing in each fraternity or dormitory, in which eight or more students shall reside at the time of the election, shall elect one of their number as their representative in the Assembly. There shall be a representative for each eight students in actual residence in any fraternity or dormitory but in no case shall an Assembly member represent less than eight students. Students living in places of residence in which less than nine students reside may be combined by the President with other such places to complete the required number of members for a constituency. If no such combination is possible, constituency for representation shall be at the discretion of the election committee described in paragraph five. The ratio of representatives to students shall be left to the President's discretion, however, never to exceed 32 representatives.

3. The President of the Men's Student Government (hereinafter called the President), shall cause to be published in the CAMPUS, two weeks prior to the election, the list of living centers, which are entitled to elect representatives, together with the number of authorized representatives in each case. This list shall be considered in order and correct, unless there shall be, within one week, a written protest signed by at least ten students in residence in any one living center. In case of protest, a hearing shall be held and a final decision rendered within 48 hours by a Protest Board, composed of not less than four nor more than six members elected from and by the Assembly at the last meeting of the previous semester. The Board shall function through the elections, unless a judiciary shall be established under this Constitution, in which case the Assembly may transfer this function to the judicial department of the Men's Student Government.

4. The Assembly shall establish, by Assembly regulation, the time, place or places, and manner of elections, except that the election of representatives shall take place after the first and before the third week of each semester.

5. Before the final week of each semester the Assembly shall provide for the following semester's elections. The rules and regulations, so established, shall be administered by a committee chosen from the membership of the Assembly by the Assembly itself.

Section 3. Eligibility of Representatives.

1. Any student who has completed one semester in Middlebury, who is eligible for extra-curricular activities, and who is not on probation, in accordance with the regulations of Middlebury College, shall be eligible for election as a representative. The Class Presidents shall act as Class representatives in the Assembly. The President of the Freshman Class need not have completed an entire term at Middlebury. A Class President may not also be elected to the Assembly as a floor representative.

2. In the event of the death, withdrawal, resignation, ineligibility, or removal of any representative, the Assembly shall order a special election within one week.

3. Representatives shall take their oaths of office within ten days of their election and shall serve until 12.00 o'clock noon of the last day of the semester with the exception of the election committee chosen to conduct elections the following semester, the Protest Board, and the Class Officers who shall be on the Assembly for the duration of their offices.

4. Members of the Assembly shall take the following oath:

"I, —, do solemnly swear to uphold and promote, to the best of my judgment and ability, the standards and ideals of the Men's Student Assembly and Middlebury College."

Section 4. Assembly Rules.

1. The Assembly shall create a system of standing committees of the Assembly and may, from time to time, create special committees. Membership on committees is open to the entire Men's College and chairmanship is open to a member in good standing of the Assembly. Appointments shall be at the discretion of the Speaker, the Assembly reserving the power to veto committee appointments by a majority vote.

2. The Assembly shall elect a Speaker and a Secretary from its own membership and a Treasurer from the body of the Men's College. The term of office of Assembly officers shall coincide with the term of office of the representatives by whom they were elected.

3. The Speaker shall have completed four semesters at Middlebury and shall be able to meet the eligibility requirements in Section 3.

4. The Secretary and Treasurer shall have completed two semesters at Middlebury and shall be able to meet the eligibility requirements.

5. A representative shall be elected to replace the Speaker from his constituency.

6. The Assembly shall meet regularly at least once each month during the College year, and as frequently in addition thereto as the Assembly shall provide.

7. The Assembly shall provide a body of Assembly rules to govern the orderly transaction of business and to establish the procedure thereof. Assembly rules and resolutions shall be established by a majority vote of the Quorum present.

8. It shall be a fixed rule that two unexcused absences on the part of any representative shall constitute automatic expulsion and shall entail ineligibility for membership in the Assembly the following semester. The Speaker shall determine the legitimacy of excuses. A new election in the constituency shall be called by the President for the election of a new representative before the next meeting of the Assembly.

9. Two-thirds of the entire membership shall constitute a quorum.

10. The Assembly shall have the power, by a two-thirds vote of the entire membership, to expel any representative or to remove the Treasurer or any officer of the legislative or judicial departments, provided that a written complaint, signed by at least 20 per cent of the members of the Assembly or 10 per cent of the Men's College, shall have been filed with the Secretary of the Assembly and a special investigating committee of the Assembly shall have held a hearing and made a report thereon.

The President, upon the written complaint of 10 per cent of Men's College or 20 per cent of the members of the Assembly, shall be brought before an impeachment committee consisting of the Speaker of the Assembly, the Dean of Men, and two members of the Assembly elected by a majority vote of the Assembly. The recommendation of this committee shall be placed before a meeting of the entire Men's College which shall be summoned by the Speaker. The President may be removed, after the committee reports, by a majority vote of the Men's College, the findings of the committee notwithstanding.

11. The meetings of the Assembly, standing committees, special committees, and sub-committees thereof shall be open to students and reporters for the CAMPUS at all times. Everyone may speak if recognized, but only members of the Assembly may vote.

Section 5. Assembly Regulations.

1. The Assembly shall have the power to enact Assembly regulations governing all purely student affairs. Such Assembly regulations shall be binding on all students and shall be enforced and administered by the executive department.

2. Assembly regulations shall be passed by a majority vote of the entire membership and shall be published from time to time for the information of the students.

3. Assembly regulations shall become effective when approved by the President, or, if he should return them to the Assembly unsigned with his reasons for refusing his signature, when repassed by a two-thirds vote of the entire membership of the Assembly. The President may approve the regulation in whole or in part.

4. Assembly regulations shall not become effective if contrary to the regulations of Middlebury College. Upon the completion of the passage by the Assembly, regulations shall be presented at once by the President to the Student Life Committee and shall be deemed to comply with college regulations unless specifically disapproved by that committee as contrary thereto.

5. The following is an incomplete list of matters which are subject to control by Assembly regulation:

a. To authorize the formation of any new undergraduate organization involving men students; to approve the constitutions of such organizations and present the constitutions to the Student Life Committee for action; to review and reconsider the status of student organizations and their constitutions; to act jointly with the women's assembly organizations involving both men and women.
b. To foster Middlebury traditions and customs.
c. To establish such executive agencies or positions subordinate to the President as shall be necessary to execute the policies it may enact.
d. To regulate and provide for administering all men's student celebrations, mass meetings, dinners, dances, and other events, the supervision of which is not otherwise provided for by the regulations of Middlebury College.
e. To formulate regulations for student conduct supplementary to and consistent with College regulations.
f. To authorize proper expenditures necessary to the transactions of business of the Men's Student Government.

6. Assembly regulations affecting women students shall not be effective unless they shall have been approved by the Legislative Council of the Student Union, and have been signed by the President thereof, in which case such Assembly regulations shall become joint regulations enforced and administered jointly.

7. In case the regulations are not passed by the Student Union, a conference committee shall be formed, consisting of four members of the Assembly, elected by the Assembly, and four members of the Student Union, elected by the Student Union.

Section 6. College Regulations.

The enactment of College regulations is a function of the trustees and administrative officers of the College, which function may not be properly and legally transferred to a student government. Therefore, if the Assembly shall desire the enactment or revision of College regulations the Assembly shall, by Assembly resolution, instruct the proper committee to advise the administration of the recommendation of the Assembly. If, and when, the recommendation is acted upon favorably, the committee shall report the new or revised College regulation to the Assembly and the Assembly shall enact an Assembly regulation embodying the same content. The enforcement and administration of College regulations shall become the joint responsibility of the Men's Student Government and of the administration.

Section 7. Assembly Resolutions.

1. The Assembly shall have the power to enact Assembly resolutions by a majority vote of the members present requesting information and reports from student organizations and student officers and inviting administration officers and faculty members to state their views, in person or in writing, on matters pending in the Assembly.

2. Assembly rules shall not require the signature of the President nor shall resolutions, such as the above, intended solely to aid the Assembly in its proper functioning, require the signature of the President. Only regulatory rulings for the Men's Undergraduate Association and resolutions expressing student opinion are properly subject to veto.

Article II. The Executive Department

Section 1. The President.

1. There shall be a President of the Men's Student Government, who shall be elected by students at large at an election to be held between three and four weeks prior to the conclusion of the spring semester. He shall be inaugurated, with appropriate ceremonies, at the concluding daily chapel of the spring semester and shall hold office until the inauguration of the succeeding President. This is subject to a change to semester basis, by the Assembly, should the need arise.

2. Any student, who has completed six semesters prior to the semester in which he will hold office, of which three semesters must be spent at Middlebury, and who is eligible for extra-curricular activities and not on probation, according to College regulations, shall be eligible for election to the office of President.

3. The President shall take the following oath at his inauguration:

"I, —, do solemnly swear to perform the duties of the President of the Undergraduate Association as prescribed in the Constitution to the best of my judgment and ability, endeavoring always to promote the traditions and ideals of Middlebury College, so help me God."

4. The President shall be the official representative of the Men's Student Government at all official functions. Jointly with the President of the Women's Student Union, he shall represent the body of Middlebury College.

5. The President shall preside at the first regular meeting of the Assembly, until the Assembly shall choose its own officers. The President shall deliver to the Assembly, at its first regular meeting, a presidential address in which he shall advise the newly elected representatives of the problems requiring their attention and shall recommend action thereon. The President may, at any time during his term of office, send special messages to the Assembly, either in person or in writing, and such messages must be referred to the appropriate committee and reported therefrom.

6. The President must review all Assembly regulations in accordance with the provisions of Article 1, Section 5, paragraph three, and shall sign same or return them to the Assembly with reasons for withholding his signature before the next regular meeting of the Assembly.

7. The President shall be responsible for the enforcement of all regulations enacted by the Assembly.

8. In case of the death, withdrawal, ineligibility, resignation or removal of the President, the Speaker of the Assembly shall succeed to the office, until the new President is elected by the Undergraduate Men. This election shall be held within two weeks. The time and place of the election to be left to the discretion of the election committee of the Assembly.

Section 2. Class Officers.

1. The number and functions of the Class officers shall be at the discretion of the Assembly.

2. The eligibility requirements for Class officers shall be the same as for members of the Assembly, with the exception of the Freshmen Class officers.

3. The place and manner of elections shall be determined and announced by the Assembly. The Undergraduate President or his appointed delegate shall preside at Class elections which shall be held within two weeks after the beginning of the semester in which the Class officers shall take office.

4. The President shall call Class meetings at least once each semester.

5. The Class Presidents may be removed by a majority vote of their constituents.

6. Class meetings may be called by the petition of 25 per cent of the members of the Class.

7. In the event that the office of Class President becomes vacant, the other Class officers shall succeed thereto in the order of their election.

8. The Class President shall act as a member of the Men's Assembly.

9. In the event that the Class President has two unexcused absences from meetings of the Men's Assembly, he shall be deprived of his vote. His vote shall thereupon be assumed by the Class Vice-President. In the same manner, the vote may be transferred to the other Class officers in the order of their election.

10. The Class Treasurer is authorized to collect appropriations from Class members on measures passed by a majority of all Class members.

Section 3. The Treasurer.

1. The Treasurer of the Assembly shall be elected by the Assembly from the Men's College at large at the same time when the Speaker is elected.

2. The Treasurer shall submit a written financial report at each meeting of the Assembly.

3. The Treasurer shall pay no vouchers for the Men's Student Government unless such vouchers have been signed by the President and the Speaker certifying that such voucher represents an expenditure properly authorized by the Assembly.

Article III. Judicial Department

Section 1. The Men's Student Court.

The Assembly, by Assembly regulation, may establish a Men's Student Court and fix its jurisdiction, authority, and rules of procedure in all purely student matters.

Section 2. Disciplinary Cases.

The Assembly may deem it desirable to extend the jurisdiction of the Men's Student Court to matters of discipline, which are by the regulations of the College properly the jurisdiction of the administrative officers of the College. In such cases, the Assembly shall, by Assembly resolution, respectfully petition the Dean of Men for authority to extend the jurisdiction of the Men's Student Court, if consistent with the regulations of Middlebury College. If such authorization is received, the Assembly shall, by Assembly regulation, extend the jurisdiction of the court in accordance therewith.

Section 3. Selection of Judges.

1. The number of judges and the use of the jury system shall be matters of Assembly determination, except that the Assembly must provide a method of selection of judges which shall remove them from political control.

2. No judge shall be selected without the approval of the Student Life Committee.

Article IV. Transition Period

Due to war-time conditions, the following section shall take precedence over all previous provisions of this Constitution until normal peace-time conditions are resumed, at which time this article shall automatically go out of effect.

Madison Jones Talks on FEPC At SAA Meeting

SAA, for the first time this semester, featured an outside speaker, Mr. Madison S. Jones, Jr., in its Wednesday night discussion of American labor problems as related to racial discrimination.

Mr. Jones described the workings of the Fair Employment Practices committee, a war-time agency whose future existence is now a matter of debate before the U. S. Senate. During the war it was the duty of the committee to guard against unfair practices in the employment of various racial groups. If any plant or employer organization operating under war contract was found to have violated anti-discrimination statutes action could be taken against it under this law. The committee now faces possible dissolution if it is not given further license by Congress.

Following his formal address, Mr. Jones answered questions from his audience and gave general analysis of events now taking place in the Senate controversy. Mr. Jones is also listed as representing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, of which he is administrative assistant.

Following his chapel address in chapel today, Mr. Jones visited various classrooms on campus.

UNION, MIDD GAME

Midd Men Improve

Stauffer of Union appeared to have played his best ball of the season against the home club as he made some remarkable one handers from his right forward position.

Playing his final and best game of the current season for Middlebury was Chuck Mutti who is due to pack up and don the uniform of a U. S. Marine this very Friday. His fight coupled with Lindner's experience at the guard spot made things quite tough for the visitors, and between the two, they were able to rack up 14 points.

Midd Loses '46 Carnival

Middlebury's team score placed them second to Dartmouth, as the Big Green landed three men in the first ten, while Midd took first, fourth, and fifteenth, and McGill, third, ninth, and fourteenth.

Friday afternoon, Art Bruneau of McGill won the slalom in 1.22, followed by Kaare Olsen, of the same team, with 1.22.8. Jack Snobble and Stu MacLaren of Army followed with times 1.23.9 and 1.24.0, respectively.

Luck Against Middlebury

Disappointing for the crowd the Middlebury skiers seemed to be plagued by bad luck throughout the meet. The slalom was supposed to be Middlebury's strongest event, but Fife caught an edge and fell, and Cremer finished well down in the standings, with times of 1.34.0 and 1.39.0.

In the combined slalom and downhill, Don Staniforth was first with a total of 165.6, McLane of Dartmouth, second with 167.9 and Fife, third, with 170.4.

Dartmouth Took Cross-country

The following morning, found 35 men on hand at Breadloaf, to run the shortened four-mile cross-country course. Below zero weather and chilling north winds did not stop Mal McLane, as he upset favored Erling Finne, Norwegian exchange student, who attends New Hampshire. McLane bettered the letter's time of 24 minutes, 54 seconds, by 42 seconds. Art Ramsey and John Chivers, both of Dartmouth, placed third and fourth, leaving little doubt in the minds of the spectators as to the college that would win the team title.

Once again Middlebury's hopes of winning their own carnival dimmed, as Stu Petrie broke one of his skis and Cremer's binding was faulty from the start, making it necessary for Tom to slow up or lose his ski altogether.

Treacherous Jumping

The fourth and final event on the Carnival skiing calendar, the ever thrilling jump started an hour late, due to the fact that the hill had to be chopped and raked, so the jumpers could be spared some of the treacherous conditions that ice presents. Close to 800 chilled spectators applauded Kaare Olsen of McGill, as he soared to jumps of 95 and 92 feet, displaying excellent form and control. The judges awarded him 202.9 points, which was 11.4 points better than this nearest rival, Art Ramsey, of Dartmouth, and 12.6 points ahead of Jack Snobble, also of Dartmouth, who copped third position.

In an exhibition jump, Phil Dunham, former Middlebury student, leaped 110 feet, displaying the flawless form which made him the winner of last year's jumping.

The hill record of 118 feet, set two years ago by Cliff Hendrix, Midd '45, wasn't threatened, as the jumpers were allowed, due to the icy conditions, to use three-quarter speed, rather than the entire length of the tower.

Hanzsche, Presbyterian Pastor, to Give Vespers

William T. Hanzsche, pastor of the Prospect Street Presbyterian Church, Trenton, New Jersey, will be the chapel speaker on Sunday, January 27, 1946. Editor and clergyman, he studied at Johns Hopkins and Princeton Universities, after which he served as chaplain at the Western Military Academy. From 1929 to 1933, Mr. Hanzsche was editor of The Presbyterian Magazine in New York City. He is also the author of several books on religion among which are: The Great Themes of Jesus, Oracles of God and Our Presbyterian Church. Mr. Hanzsche formerly spoke as "The Pathfinder" over Radio National Broadcasting Co. for the Federal Council of Churches, four months a year.

Bridge Expert Gives Helpful Information; Advises Players on Fine Points of Game

Polly Ordway

Middlebury, the land of sport, where skiing is king of the outdoors and bridge is the Jack of dorm recreation! Assuming that you are all excellent skiers, I shall endeavor to acquaint you with some of the finer points of bridge, the game which is so popular in the evening, after long hours spent christiing and slaloming down the snowy slopes of Breadloaf and chapel hill.

Two-Three Handed

Bridge is a game usually played by four players, although there are variations by which two or three may play. Three-handed bridge has its setback as there is never a dummy to get the refreshments. There is a form involving two people which is evidently played a lot on honeymoons, as it has been named "honeymoon bridge."

Before explaining the essentials of the game there is one thing against which I would like to caution you. If you are a person of unusually sweet temperament the game is not for you. I have found the best players to be those who can shout loudest and find the most mistakes in their partner's playing. You see, this is not a game of cards alone; it is one in which wit and ingenious repartee constitute much of its skill. The idea is to confuse your opponents sufficiently so that they will forget which cards have been played.

Wiles of Bidding

Bidding seems to be the highlight of the game. Yet it is merely a subtle way of talking across the table. Everyone knows what is in your hand, but you know just what your opponents have too, so there are no hard feelings there. Vocal intonation plays a large part in the bidding. If you think you have a little help, but are not sure of what suit to bid, your voice should imply weakness. A favorite bid of this sort is the no trump bid. If your partner bids a suit and you think you have enough Queens and Jacks to bid, you say in a sprightly voice, smiling at your partner, "One no TRUMP." But of course if you bid merely because you don't want to get left out of the party, you groan audibly, and sigh, "One NO trump." This is a sure bid and tells your partner exactly what he wants to know. If your partner bids a suit in reply to your bid, by all means let him play the hand if he wants it so much. This always starts a lively conversation, and besides, you can read the latest Life.

Use of Finesse

The bidding, as I have made clear, is the important feature. The rest consists in just throwing down the cards, and the one with the highest card wins the trick. There is a rather clever little play which everyone calls the finesse. This means you play a queen instead of an ace when you have the combination in your hand. This forces your opponent to play his king. He takes the trick, but at least that's one card out of the way.

I think that's about all you need to know about the game. You'll find it an amusing way to pass the time. If you'll just follow these few simple rules I have laid down you will have no trouble. Remember—a good bridge player is the life of the party, and a poor one . . . . well, just do as I say and you can't miss! Oh, yes, one more interesting play. If you are dealt a particularly poor hand, drop one of your cards on the floor, say you have only twelve, and demand a redeal. After the cards have been thrown in, you reach down and say, "Oh, look! Here's the missing card on the floor. Now how on earth did it get here?"

Midd Skating Show Held Sunday Night

The grand finale of Middlebury's 1946 Winter Carnival was the ice skating show held on the college rink Sunday at 8:00 p.m. under the direction of Catherine M. Pomeroy '47, Betty W. Pickles '47, and Cynthia R. Strout '48. Included among the exhibitions were solos by Miss Hope Taylor of Providence, R. I., one half of the New England women's championship skating team.

The opening number featured Cynny and sixteen members of the chorus, resplendent in rather breezy ski outfits, about to take off on the slalom or the downhill. The second group to glide gracefully out on the ice were two couples executing the ten step. Several student solos were performed, including an interesting baton twirling routine by Jean Mace '47.

Miss Taylor, a freshman at Pembroke, belongs to the Skating Club of Boston, the Providence Figure Skating Club, and the Skridsko Skating Club. In her three numbers she executed the difficult Axel Paulson jump, the Jackson Haines spin, and the Camel spin.

Recently Revised Men's Constitution

Section 1.

Members of the Men's Assembly, Upperclass officers expected, need not have completed one semester at Middlebury.

Article V. Effective Date

Section 1. Ratification.

This constitution shall become effective, when acted upon favorably by a two-thirds majority of the Men's Student Assembly in office December 4, 1945, when approved by the Student Life Committee, and approved by a majority of the undergraduate men students, regularly enrolled in Middlebury College, who shall vote on this Constitution at a special meeting called by the President.

Section 2. Proclamation.

If, and when, the conditions of ratification, as set forth in Section 1 above, are fulfilled, the President shall proclaim this Constitution in full force and effect.

Article VI. Amendment

This Constitution may be amended by a two-thirds vote of the entire membership of the Assembly, provided that the amendment shall be approved by the Student Life Committee and ratified by a majority of the Men's College who shall vote on the amendment at a special meeting called by the President for that purpose, and provided further that at least one week shall separate its official proposal and its ratification.

G. Newcomb '46 Writes on Negro Problem in South

A letter entitled "Negro Needs in South," recently published in the New York Herald Tribune, was submitted to that paper by George C. Newcomb, a former member of the class of '46, who has been stationed as Marine Sergeant in that part of the country.

Five Necessary Steps

Newcomb listed five steps necessary to insure race harmony in the southern states, basing his article mainly on data collected from his observations at Cherry Point, N. C. The former Middlebury student took special note of the conditions and treatment of the Negroes in this section in contrast to the North.

Chief among Newcomb's conclusions was the need for full employment among both races, even to the extent of Federal Aid in stimulating new sources of labor activity. As an example, he pointed out that "Governor Arnall of Georgia has suggested several new industries, some related to the soy bean, which can easily be developed in the South and would not be in direct competition with the North."

Equal Education

Urging the continuation of the FEPC, Sergeant Newcomb suggests as his second measure that this commission insure intermission, introduced with a few words from President Stratton. Russell P. Dale, Jr. '46, was chosen as King, and Jean L. Crawford '46 as the Queen in the evening's most climatic spectacle. The Royal Party with its attendants had several waltzes together before returning to their partners. Other candidates for king were Lewis G. Ensinger '46, J. David Hunt '48, Hugh H. Mathews '47, Peter Q. McKee '48, Raymond E. Walch '47, George F. Wiemann, III '47. Ladies of the court included candidates Elizabeth B. Carr '46, Barbara L. Grigg '46, Jane M. Laux '46, Katherine A. Rowley '46, Violet M. Schnyder '46, and Marie M. Scudder '46.

Credit Due Everywhere

Among the patrons and patronesses at the Ball were Dr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Storrs Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. F. Conant Voter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Waldo H. Heinrichs, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Bowker, and Dr. and Mrs. Stewart Ross from Rutland.

The laurels of the dance go to Jean L. Crawford '46 and Nancy C. Surtees '47 and their co-operative committees who worked untiringly and efficiently for the ball's success. All in all the ball seemed to be the highlight of the big weekend. The soft lights, the fine music, and the well-appreciated relaxation of that evening was a happy relief in the fast and crowded program of the 1946 Winter Carnival of Middlebury.

College Office Lists Various Summer Jobs

This year's summer employment, as offered through the Women's and Men's Placement Offices, is mostly for those students interested in camp positions and recreational work. Openings for well-paid jobs in the field of industry will not be as numerous this summer as they have been in the past.

Counselors Needed

Camp positions for men are available for both the experienced and inexperienced. There are openings for counselors of all the waterfront sports, golf, tennis, riflery, music, fine and the applied arts, and such sports as wrestling, baseball, football, and soccer. The list is long and varied. Those camps which desire men counselors are: the Indian Acres Camp for Boys located in Fryeburg, Me., the Henry Street Settlement Camp in Mahapac Falls, N. Y., Camp Passumpsic on Lake Fairlee in Vt., and Little Sirecho Camp on Lake Armington in N. H. At the settlement camp the minimum salary is $50 per month. Camp Passumpsic offers salaries which range from $100 to $250 for the summer. The other camps stipulate that their salaries depend on the age, ability, and experience of the counselors.

Institutional Work

The Neuro-Psychiatric Institute of the Hartford Retreat has appointments open for both men and women to the staff of psychiatric aides. In the past few years some Middlebury students have held positions at the Institute. Not only are there openings for summer employment, but also for graduate students interested in full-time positions. These students begin as aides at $70 per month and full maintenance. This is increased to $80 when the employee is rated as a psychiatric aide. Anyone interested in this work should see Mr. Gordon A. Barrows of the college placement office, who has pamphlets describing the work at the Institute.

Counselor positions for both men and women are open at Camp Sloan in Lakeville, Conn. The Girl Scout Camp in Lewiston, Me., needs girls for counselors on the waterfront, in crafts, and nature. Openings for those girls interested in recreational work are obtainable at the Norfolk House in Boston. The salary is $50 per month and room at the House. The Long Lane Farm Schools in Middletown, Conn., has openings for women assistants.

The college placement offices, under the direction of Mrs. Juanita P. Cook and Mr. Barrows are for the student's help. At the offices there are qualification blanks which are to be filled out by the applicants. In this way Mrs. Cook and Mr. Barrows will know to whom to send the student's applications.

Ski Rally Begins Weekend Gaiety; Frolic Gives Rest

In an effort to get the Carnival spirit going full tilt by the time Thursday evening and the first event of the weekend rolled around, Emmy and Ray, the already enthusiastic co-chairmen of Middlebury's biggest Winter Carnival, held a rally in McCullough Gymnasium Tuesday evening, January 15. On the idea of the old-time football rallies that were a traditional part of the "Midd spirit," this get-together was planned to introduce the ski teams to the college and arouse the enthusiasm of the students to give them the support they deserved.

Coaches and Captains Spoke

Joe Jones, coach of the men's team, acted as M.C., and he did a good job of casting bouquets to the willing workers who had been out all day packing the Chipman jump. Tom Cremer and Becky Fraser, captains of the men's and women's teams respectively, each had the floor for a few minutes, and Coach Bobo Sheehan of the women's team made a plea for support of the teams during the weekend meet.

The informal air of the whole affair was topped off with a little Scandinavian singing and yodeling by the ski teams.

Frolic Sunday Morning

Sunday morning Carnival-goers had their second chance for an informal, relaxing hour. The Frolic, introduced into the weekend's events for the first time last year, was held in Forest Rec from 10:30 to noon. A welcome pick-up after two strenuous days that included cold trips to Breadloaf, the rugged Klondike Rush, and the high-lighted Carnival Ball, this event, almost the only one on the Carnival schedule that involved food, fun, comfort, and no energy, was as popular as it had been last year.

Doc Weidner provided the main entertainment by showing ski movies sent down from the Stowe ski school by Rolf Holtvedt, coach of the women's ski team last year. Coffee, milk, and doughnuts were sold to the crowd of hungry students who attended, and records provided music for dancing.

Letter Discusses Southern Problem

equal opportunities for education to both Negroes and whites as well as fair employment practices. State appropriations he now feels are inadequate and subsequently calls for funds from the national government for supplementary public schools.

Voting restrictions are still prevalent in many areas of the South, according to Sergeant Newcomb. He stresses the need for more stringent enforcement of sufferage rights by the federal government, stating that "if a state refuses to grant this privilege, then, in accordance with the Fourteenth Amendment, that state should be denied representation in the House of Representatives proportionate to the number of qualified voters it refuses to permit to vote. The poll tax must be abolished."

For his two closing resolutions, Sergeant Newcomb demands that anti-lynching laws be passed at the earliest date and that every church in the South, "if it professes to be Christian, should make it a policy to allow all races to enter its portals."

Newcomb points out in conclusion that if the American people "advocate fair play and democracy in the remainder of the world, they must cease this hypocracy and first rectify their own injustices. The Negro race in America has great potential wealth, for if allowed to develop in freedom, these people can contribute infinitely to the economic and scientific development of our nation. In partial bondage, they have already produced heroes in wars, champions in sports and great leaders in science, medicine, the arts and in every walk of life."

F. M. Hopkins to Replace Elizabeth Ives at Library

Florence M. Hopkins, the new cataloguing librarian from Springfield, Mass., who is replacing Elizabeth N. Ives, started work at the Middlebury library on January 22, 1946.

Miss Hopkins' first position was at the Crawfordsville, Ind., public library, after which she was employed at the Purdue university library. Her next position was with the Historical and Philosophical society of Ohio. Miss Hopkins then went on to work in the libraries of Briarcliffe junior college and the Banker's Trust Company in New York City.

Annual Klondike Has Gala Crowd

This year's Klondike Rush was ushered in with icy cold blasts of zero wind, and escorted out with a mild snowfall. Held in the high school gym from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., it was attended by many Middlebury students and the numerous imports who were so welcome on campus over the weekend. The versatile music of Park Preble's pleased even the most conservative, not to mention the enthusiastic, dancers as sweet and hot tune were evenly played. The popularity of the square dances, which were called by the orchestra leader, was evident as the crowded floor literally whirled in groups of eight.

Co-Chairman Ray Sacher and Emmy Cushing awarded prizes to the winners of the women's downhill and slalom races mid-point in the evening. Following these awards, Dr. Stewart Ross, recently elected term trustee of Middlebury college and a Middlebury graduate, awarded prizes to combined winners of the day's events.

The apparel of fellows and gals, plaid shirts and jeans, added to the smoky but lively atmosphere of Klondike. The decorations turned the gym into a veritable ski resort as posters from many ski centers hung on the walls. Besides these large posters was a display of photographs taken at Pico Peak of the tow and skiers.

Refreshing ice cream served during the evening took, for many, the place of a cold dash into the out-of-doors as a way of combating the hot gym and the hotter plaid shirts.

Magazine, Movies To Publicize Midd

Middlebury and Carnival are receiving an extra boost in publicity thanks to Holiday magazine and Paramount News. Grantland Rice, famed for his Paramount Sportscopes, arrived yesterday at the Middlebury Inn and is remaining through Sunday to have movies taken of women's skiing at Breadloaf and Chapel Hill.

Coronation, Klondike Rush, and skiing events of the 1946 Carnival will be featured by Holiday, a new monthly publication of the Curtis Publishing Company, in an issue next winter. Jerry Cooke, who has had photographs in Life, is taking candid shots, some in technicolor, for a layout on college life in Vermont.

Plans Announced for Fall Term; Enrollment 940

it necessary to thus restrict entrances into the women's college.

Although for one semester during the war when Middlebury had a Naval unit the enrollment reached 1,140, next year's proposed figures will necessitate several changes for the solution of the many problems involved in accommodating such a large number of students.

Limited Facilities

An increase in the size of the faculty, necessary to handle the large classes, is limited by available housing facilities for any new professors that might be appointed. Mead Chapel is not large enough for such a number of students, making compulsory chapel for the entire college impossible. Library, classroom, and laboratory conditions will be crowded beyond normal capacity. Women will have to double up in Hepburn where there are three-room suites, placing one girl in every room, instead of the present arrangement of two girls in three rooms.
